wellwellwell BLEND

Yunnan is usually associated more with tea than coffee. But actually, the climate there makes it favourable for tea cultivation and ideal for growing coffee too. 1200m above sea level lies a forty-hectare coffee farm in Ximeng, Pu'er founded by a native Lahu villager who brought prosperity to his village through growing coffee. In every cup of coffee, you can almost taste the fresh air in Yunnan where these coffee beans once grew and were directly brought to you, right at the heart of Hong Kong.
